ONLINE SYMPOSIUM | FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 5:00 P.M.

ENVIRONMENT, CLIMATE, AND CULTURAL HERITAGE: NATIVE AMERICAN PERSPECTIVES

Distinguished leaders in law and practice discuss the protection and survival of the cultural heritage of Indigenous communities.

SUPPORTED BY A GRANT FROM

THE ANDREW W. MELLON FOUNDATION

This online event is part of the Academy’s International Observatory for Cultural Heritage, known for its conferences on the preservation of Indigenous cultures, ranging from the U.S. to the Middle East to Africa and Europe. Past conferences—“Threatened Heritage: Bears Ears, Chaco, and Beyond” and “Resisting, Reclaiming, Reframing: Indigenous Communities and Art Museum Collections”—brought together Indigenous cultural leaders from around North America to build connections and take action.

MODERATOR

ANGELO BACA, New York University (DINÉ AND HOPI)

SPEAKERS

CLINT CARROLL, University of Colorado Boulder (CHEROKEE NATION)

ELIZABETH KRONK WARNER, University of Utah (SAULT STE. MARIE TRIBE OF CHIPPEWA INDIANS)

DARREN RANCO, University of Maine (PENOBScot NATION)

MARGARET REDSTEER, University of Washington (CROW NATION)

MORE INFO AND REGISTRATION

italianacademy.columbia.edu